MANHATTAN
CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

The Campaign for
Manhattan Christian College

"Now it came about that, in those days (1983-1987), there was no open "Vision." (Or shall we say, "There was no "Vision" whatsoever.")

— I Samuel 3:1 (Revised Version)

This was the year of the "Vision" in more ways than one. Though the yearbook, "Vision," did return, more important was the "vision" that manifested itself in the MCC fundraising campaign, "Invest in the Vision." With the help of Cargill Associated, MCC set out to raise 5 1/2 million dollars. This was done in order to take the school out of financial crisis and set it on a more solid foundation (otherwise known as "endowment"). Though the school will still need other support to function effectively, this three-year campaign will help to protect it in times of future crisis.

Meet The Yearbook Staff:

Tim Snell, Chris Wolfe, Terri Spurgeon, Tara Warren (Editor), Kelly Hayes.

We still look back and wonder how we did it. With only 5 people who knew extremely little about how to produce a yearbook, the idea seemed absurd. But someone needed to do it, so we tried and ran into about as many problems as there were pages in the book (maybe more). Without our representative from Jostens (Derius Mammen), or help from STUCO financially, there's no way we could have pulled it off (Thanks!). Well, it's finished and we hope that all our efforts to pull this off will be worth it to the student body. We appreciate your support!

P.S. I'd like to give a special thank-you to those on the staff. Though it was a burden at times, we learned a lot and we grew a lot. I hope it has been an experience that you'll remember with a smile. You guys are great!

Tara

Excellence assumes an objective. It demands that we think beyond dreams and concepts; that we think of reality in terms of what can be, what ought to be. We recognize that we will not achieve excellence in everything, but we must pursue it continually.

Christian leadership demands vision. The Christian leader must have both foresight and insight. When he does, he will be able to envision the end result of the policies or methods he advocates.

Vision includes optimism and hope. No pessimist ever became a great leader. The pessimist sees a difficulty in every opportunity; the optimist sees an opportunity in every difficulty.

Vision imparts venturesomeness — the willingness to take fresh steps of faith when there is a seeming void beneath.

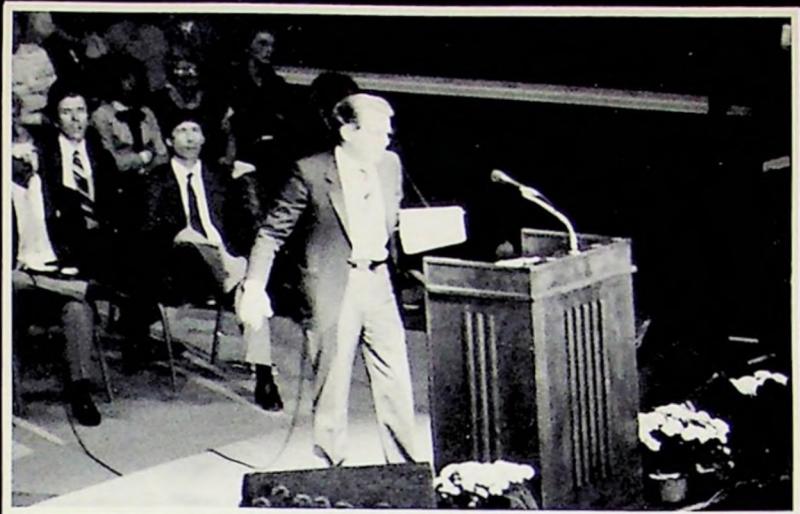

(Ted Engstrom)

Meet KSU President - Dr. Jon Wefald.

The 16th Annual Benefit Dinner was held on November 6, 1987 in order to raise money for updating the computers. MCC was honored to present as the speaker for the evening President Jon Wefald of Kansas State University. The meal was catered by the Cotton Club with special music provided by the Celebration Singers. Both the Singers & the servers did an excellent job of representing Manhattan Christian College. It was an evening enjoyed by all.

PALAU CRUSADE HITS HEART

Luis Palau speaks to the thousands that fill Ahearn Field House.

Luis Palau wants to introduce people to a personal relationship with Christ, bring unity to all Christians and see young Christians serve Christ fulltime. This is why he brought his "Heart of America" campaign to Manhattan. Palau wanted to reach the college students, the military, and the farmers. Manhattan provided him that opportunity. He believes that today's students have an image of a perfect body, but not a perfect soul. The crusade gave students the opportunity to balance their lifestyle.

During the crusade, many people gave their life to Christ. It was an excellent opportunity for Christian students to share their faith with others. MCC students were involved in the crusade in many ways. Some sang in the choir and others worked as ushers and counselors. All those who played an active part in the crusade felt the blessings they received made the work worthwhile.

"Where's the food?", asks Doug and Todd.

Luis Palau prays that more might come forward to give their lives to Christ.

Sheila Walsh performs a mini concert for those attending the crusade.

MCC students and faculty, Ed Wolfe, Virgil Warren, David Warren, and Margaret Moore participate in a small ensemble accompanying the choir.

Candlelights

Kurt Mortensen and Stacy Smith - January 14, 1988.

Todd Beale and Davinna Bradshaw - December 11, 1987.

Lorri Hammerschmidt and Jerry Petterson - August 24, 1987.

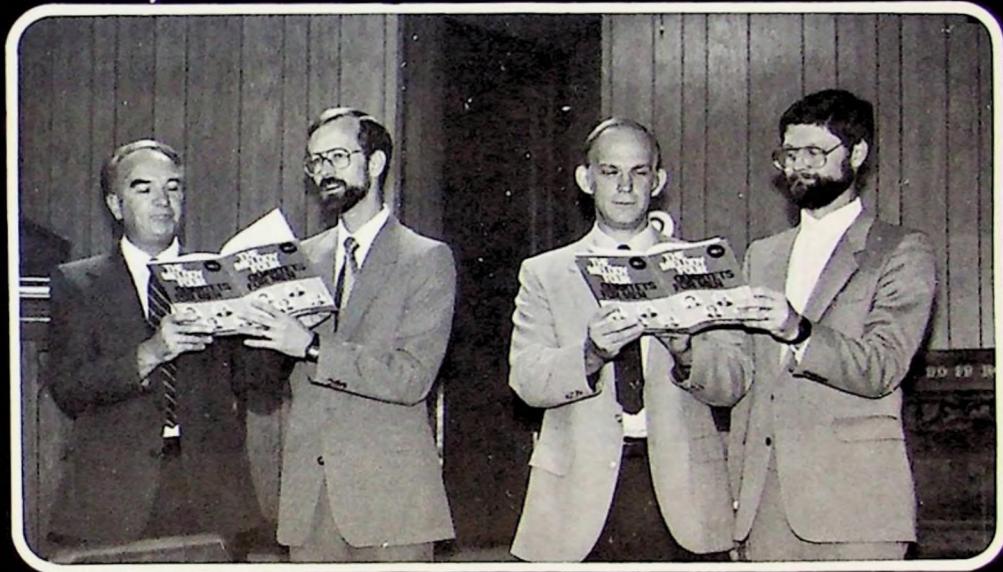

Mark Willoughby and Donna Bane - January 13, 1988.

"Candlelighting" is a tradition that was back in full force this year. Its purpose is to provide occasion for a couple to publicly announce their engagement. During the ceremony, the only available light streams from a candle to which the engagement ring is fastened. As this candle goes around the circle of viewers, the ring will be inspected and certain participants will share appropriate songs and poems. Once this is done, the candle will go around one final time and the bride-to-be will blow it out. No more guessing—the secret is out.

ATHLETICS

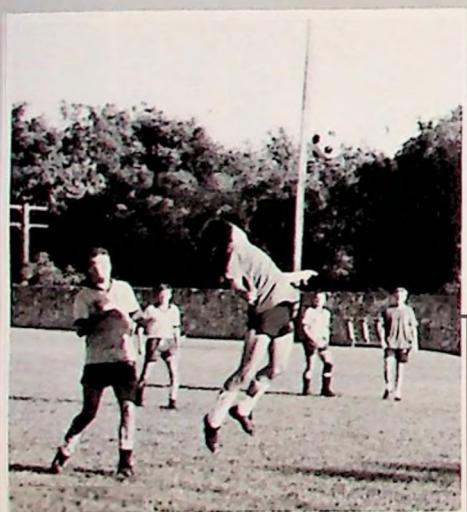

Russel and Euripedes use teamwork in attempt to win the game at Memorial Stadium.

The Manhattan Christian College soccer club had a 2-5 record for this season. The team was referred to as a club and not a varsity sport so that members of the fairer sex could also participate. It consisted of Euripedes Da-Silva, Alan Funk, Diana Plotner, Yves Prophete, Mark May, Phyllis Whitworth, Doug Dunn, Todd Hutchison, Jackie Burks, Travis Strong, Russel Moldovan, Traci Thomson, Doug Fletcher, Justin Moxley, Todd Manes, Scott Johannes, with coaches Steve Isom and Dan Hall.

The Lady Crusaders volleyball team had a promising season with a conference record of 8-6 and an overall record of 9-13. They placed fifth in the conference tournament which was held at Faith Baptist College. Among those chosen for the all-conference team were Kim Myers and Shadlee Cott. (Kim Hagar was the only graduating senior).

Basketball

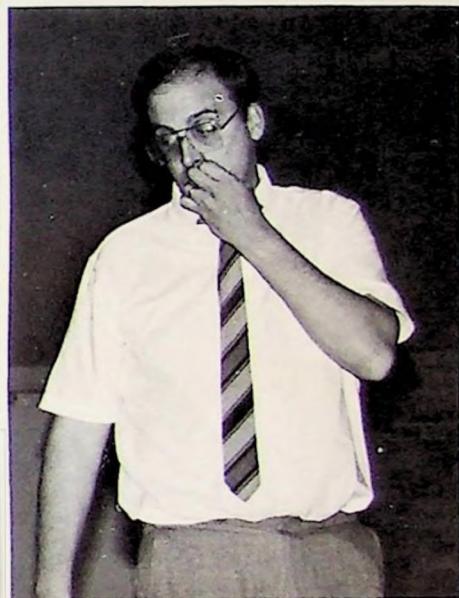

Five years ago, MCC made a commitment to field competitive teams. This 87-88 season proved to be another step toward this goal. Playing .500 ball throughout the season, losses included 7 games in which MCC lost close games in the last few seconds. The team traveled extensively, visiting cities such as Louisville, Omaha, and Kansas City. Because 5 of the 11 regulars have weekend ministries, these long road trips were followed by other road trips that would take the ministers to their location of service. It's a team of commitment.

Ed covers his ears in despair as the ringers try to figure out what to do with their bells.

The Singers and Ringers function both cooperatively and as independent groups. Not only do they perform at different seminars, dinners, and programs offered by the college, but they also join with New Creation in the production of "The Gospel According to Scrooge."

Aside from these efforts, they take both a fall and spring tour. This year the spring tour took the groups throughout areas in the eastern United States and ultimately to Washington D.C. to perform on the Capitol steps. Together these groups involve more students on the MCC campus than any other group or organization. They are truly an outlet for ministry.

Kim Myers watches intently for the director's downbeat.

*"Be exalted, O Lord, in thy strength!
We will sing and praise thy power."*

"May I have this dance?" asks director, Ed Wolfe.

The Singers and Ringers make a guest appearance at the Manhattan Town Center to help celebrate its grand opening.

The Gospel According To Scrooge

Scrooge (played by Kevin Kelly) sings a final song, promising to serve and love the Lord "this time."

Those in the Scrooge cast invite others to join in this decision and give their own lives to Christ.

Cutting Edge

"Cutting Edge" was formed in 1986 for the purpose of serving churches in and around the state of Kansas. Members within the group feel that the college years are a prime time for growth as well as a time for pruning. That is why it is their desire to be on the "Cutting Edge" (see John 15).

Through their musical performance and service, they are able to condition themselves for later service in life. Members include: (front) Brenda Green, Jeanette Olson, Ronda Bowman, Kim Manes, Kevin Kelly, Margaret Moore, (back) Michael Spielman, Grant Boyd, Dwight Bradshaw. (Crystal Moxley and David Warren were added second semester as replacements).

Genae Willich and Jerry Patterson perform a duet at their joint recital.

(Others that held recitals: David Warren, Todd Manes and Annette Hockett, Kevin Kelly and Brenda Green).

Sweet Harmony

This blend of beautiful female voices consists of Audrey Hockett, Annette Hockett, and Diana Platner. It is accompanied by Paula Voss.

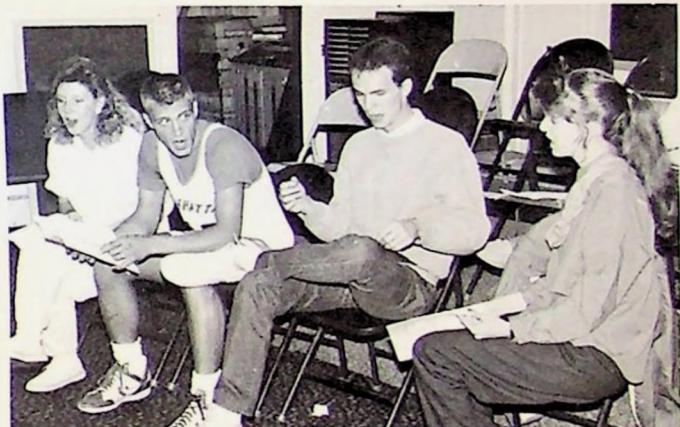

Triumphant Sound, or "TS" as it is affectionately called, is under the direction of John Poulson and Linda Weis. Now in its 12th year, the tradition continues with Jerry Patterson, Stacy Smith, Scott Park, Genae Willich, Davinna Bradshaw, Tim Dykes, Valerie Bracken, Todd Manes, and Drew Follmer (sound technician). TS goes out approximately two weekends a month to various places in Kansas, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma, and Missouri. The purpose of their presentations this year was to show how important it is to be full-time servants for Christ.

TS sings for the grand opening of the Manhattan Town Center.

Though they take time to rest, TS still can't stop perfecting their abilities.

NEW

"Eagle Eyes," Director Ruby Ann Poulsen, checks the dramatic expression of her New Creation crew (made up of: Valerie Bracken, Aimee Sack, Matt Souder, Derrick Bohn, Kevin Kelly, Tim Douglass, Sarah Grover, and Brian Virgil. Those who also participated during the first semester were Charlie George, Joy Jewett, and Lesa Martinek).

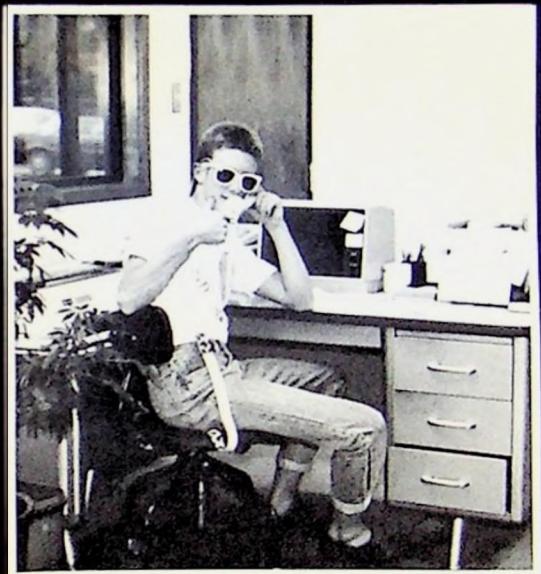

Above: Kevin Kelly executes a move under the direction of Ruby Ann Poulsen during Scrooge practice. Below: A break during Scrooge dress rehearsal finds Derrick Bohn playing the corpse.

New Creation has transformed itself in the last few years from a singing group into a drama ensemble. Besides playing a major part in "The Gospel According to Scrooge" first semester, it also worked on a program that addressed drug abuse (which it performed during the National Missionary Convention in Memphis, Tennessee). Efforts second semester were directed toward the performance of "Christ in the Concrete City" (a production that dealt with the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ). They presented this to churches on a tour throughout the midwest.

ORGANIZATIONS

"The Boss" - Director of Admissions, John Poulson, speaks with High School students at Fall Festival of Faith.

AD-TEAM

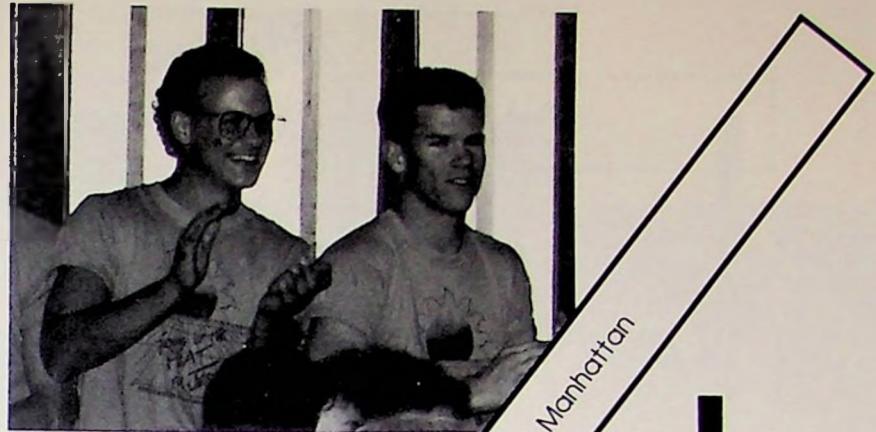

Russel Moldovan pucks to the command of Harvey Friesen.

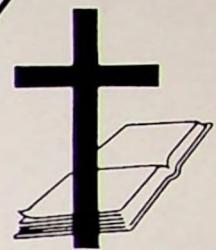

The Admissions team (or "Ad-team," as it is affectionately called) is directed by John Poulson with much help from his secretary, Margaret Moore. This group of MCC students helps high school students get a real taste of what MCC college life is like by organizing and leading weekend programs that challenge the students spiritually as well as provide them with a good time. These programs include Junior High Boot Camp, Fall Festival of Faith, and Senior Action Weekend. Students also take time out of their busy schedules to assist in MCC Bible Bowl tournaments and work at church lock-ins around the Kansas area.

Missions

MCC students join with internationals from Kansas State to share in a time of fellowship.

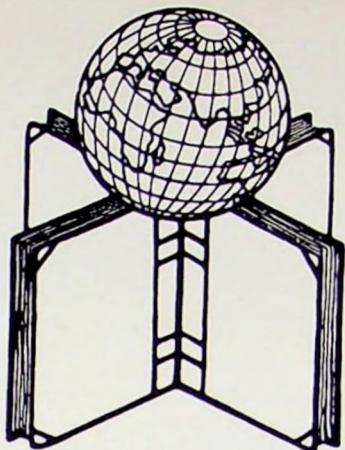

Last summer the missions department sent interns to all parts of the world. Those who were sent out included: Joe Worcester - New Zealand, Mike Victory - Chicago/New York, Bill Smith - Vancouver (Brazilians), Jeff Conrad - Vancouver (Koreans). Spending two weeks doing service-oriented projects in Mexico were: James Osenga, Kim Myers, Aimee Sack, Deb Brown, Marty and Pam Clary, Dick Kelly, Katherine Whealdon, and Mark Shelley. (Be sure to ask these people about their glamorous pursuit).

During the school year, two groups took time out to work in inner city situations. In November, a group made up of: Jeff Setzer, Mike Victory, Mike O'Neil, Jeff Conrad, Joe Worcester, Paul Thurston, Bill Smith, James Foster, Chad Parlier, and Mark Shelley spent time ministering in inner city, Kansas City. Also, during the Christmas break, students: Derrick Bohn, Joe Worcester, Jeff Setzer, and Mike O'Neil went to inner city, Los Angeles. These projects not only provided opportunities for the students to serve now, but they also equipped the students for later service.

World Christian Fellowship

WCF

World Christian Fellowship was instituted last year under the direction of Mark Shelley. It is responsible for planning missions activities such as Missions Emphasis Week, Concerts of Prayer, the International Food Banquet, and International Night. The students involved in WCF are Rick Grover, Jeanette Olson, Todd Manes, Jeff Conrad, Joe Worcester, Yves Prophete, Terri Spurgeon, Deb Brown, Bill Hocker, Paul Hill, Sarah Grover, and Audrey Hockett.

Jeff Conrad accompanies the singing with the help of a Korean friend during International Night.

Chapel this year epitomized the spiritual growth of the student body. "A still more excellent way," this year's theme, was brought forth every chapel service through singing, preaching, prayer, encouragement, and other "interpersonal" activities. Some of the highlights included the faculty talent show (sing, Dick, sing), student groups, prayer services, and senior chapels. Placing a spiritual emphasis on the students' lives helped them keep life in perspective in the face of college pressures. Memories and insights that will never be forgotten will stick with all who participated as they try to live their lives in a still more excellent way.

And I show you a still more excellent way.

Senior Salloquy

To honor our graduates, we've taken some time
To put on our "store boughts" and make up some rhyme.
We think of times past and examine the now.
We know we got here, but we're not quite sure how.

A student with missions in mind is named Joe
(or "Woos," as some call him, wouldn't you know).
He'll go to New Zealand, to do mission work there.
He's leav'in' Cheyenne Wells to show Christian care.

Then there's David Warren, almost ping pong champ,
Musician, furniture mover, collector of stamp.
He's been here five years, and a lot he's received.
He's finally "commencement"; his family's relieved.

With a name like Victory, a winner Mike is.
It always goes with him; Victory is his.
An encourager true, he earned the servant's heart award
For serving his classmates while serving the Lord.

A guy with a big heart is Travis for sure.
He used his strong voice in T.S. with allure.
A strong arm he used to keep campers in line.
He'll always be strong; it will never decline.

William Robert Smith, or alias "Bill,"
Will soon be in missions way down in Brazil.
A powerful preacher, a great writer too.
Brazil's own Mark Twain, we're countin' on you.

Happy Mark Posson, an uplifting man,
Lifts up Kaup's furniture, as only Mark can.
But spiritually, too, we know he is gifted,
For when we're around him, we're often uplifted.

Next is Kurt Mortenson. What can we say?
He's studied and worked here for many a day.
Dauntless and assertive, a bold person he,
"Intimidation" is not in his dictionary.

Perl Margaret Moore with her bright, cheerful smile,
John's Paulson's bodyguard, who goes the second mile.
We're glad she's not leaving, but with us she'll stay.
Perky and energetic, brightening our day.

David Lee Miles has preached far and near.
("Far" is Nebraska, "near" is right here.)
Wherever they wander, wherever they roam,
Dave and his wife are just two Miles from home.

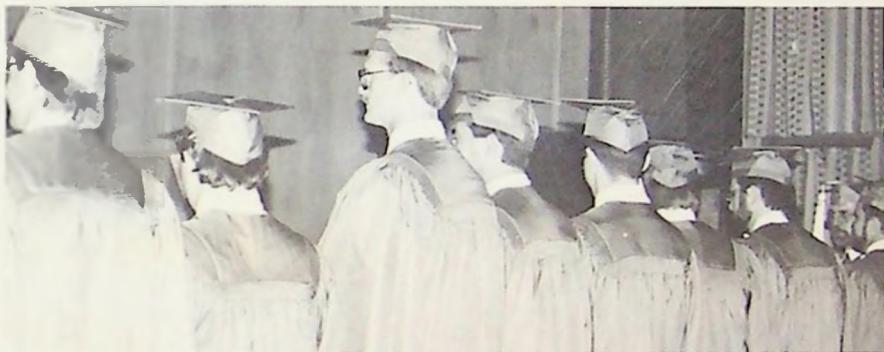

Mark Edward May, called "Barney" for short,
Made basketball All Conference for running the court.
Will he become known for his outstanding shot?
Mark may, then again he may not.

Smart, serious, dedicated--who can it be?
Who else but Gary, a Klozenbucker, he.
A faithful example to all who observe.
He'll keep pitching straight, he won't throw you a curve.

We now present at this appropriate time
Joy to the world, of you we rhyme.
A Jewell who earned young evangelist award
For teaching and supervising in serving the Lord.

Leaving big bucks to attend MCC
Is Dale, from Phoenix, his wife and kids three.
He turned down the greenbacks, put his hand to the plow.
He's not looking back. There's a bright future now.

Sweet and vivacious "Chhh" Jackie Horner,
A classmate once bade her to have a good det.
She's oft cheered us up with perpetual smile,
And now she's graduating, though it's taken a while.

GRADUATION!

Ex-towman from Florida is Timothy Hall,
Who tells us what's happenin' and calls us "you all."
He's musically talented, preaches quite well.
He can't stick around, he has a message to tell.

On the pink side of Johnson Hall one senior dwells.
Kim's made it through college on Verney's and Pells.
Work with the handicapped lies in her goals.
Her students will love her, she'll win in the polls.

Oh, the jingles we've heard about Bud can't compare.
With the genuine, spiritual Bud whom we share.
He often breaks grade curves, he is no dud.
Top grades for others have been nipped in the bud.

"Korean missions" brings one guy to mind--
Jeff Richard Conrad, so thoughtful and kind.
He's patient with others, doesn't know the word "can't."
Have you noticed his eyes? They're beginning to slant.

New on the scene is our friend, David Bruner.
Now that we know him, we wish he'd come sooner.
Quiet, but friendly, he has a nice style.
We're glad that he's been here, if just for a while.

Just think, seniors, as commencement draws nigh,
You can now speak in chapel, be called "alumni."
We want to hold on, but we must let you go.
To serve in the kingdom, as you continue to grow.

Awards: CE Scholastic Award - Travis Strong.
Scholarly Achievement Awards (2) - "Bud" Grenier. Church Growth Award - Bill Smith.
(Hiram and Marcy Cassel - Honorary Alumni)

Dedicated to Ken Kraus, graduate of MCC.

"... forgetting what lies behind and reaching forward to what lies ahead,
I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus."

— Philippians 3:13b-14
